

SAN DIEGO CITY COLLEGE

March 12, 2020

Dear Tevita,

The Corona virus or COVID-19 is a fluctuating situation, and as you know many colleges and universities are closing temporarily or moving many classes into temporary alternative learning environments.

From Monday, March 16th to Sunday, April 5th, our campus and district will be transitioning towards temporarily moving many classes to alternative instruction. This means that your professors will be creating a plan for your classes so that you can continue in class without coming to campus. Further, many student services will also be available to you through alternative methods.

Be aware that not all classes at this point will be delivered this way, so please continue to attend class until your professor contacts you, or you receive an official communication from your college or SDCCD.

It is important that you read your email, and respond to messages in your MySDCCD portal, and/or your Canvas account. Please take a moment to ensure that you can access your Canvas account and your email. Professors may also contact you via email to communicate assignments outside of the Canvas system so please check your email regularly.

We are working on securing resources for students who do not have computer and internet access at home. Keep an eye out for future communications about those resources.

In the meantime, if you are ill, please stay away from class and notify your professor.

Spring break is scheduled from March 30-April 3, with classes planned to resume on April 6. We will communicate to you about how your courses will resume as soon as possible, but before April 6th. Information regarding COVID-19 can be found on the SDCCD website here.
